Dearest Love Hubby: —

How is my precious, darling Hubby to-day? Honey dear, I do hope you feel better. Take care of yourself, dear, or I shan't love you even a tiny little bit. Let me know, dear, how you are, dear heart, how I miss & long for you. I dreamed of you all night, & awoke very early this morning. I did not sleep anymore, and spent that entire time with you. I saw you meeting me at the station, oh! wasn't happy! I saw you take me to our home and dear, how we did hug and kiss one another. Dear, some how these few remaining weeks are torturing. They do not pass at all! And now another week had to be added. Well, love, these weeks can not last forever, — they have to pass, and I sure do wish they pass quickly. And you? my darling precious hubby dear. Let me know, dear heart, how you are feeling.

Well, honey, how did you spend last night? You can picture the Sader home, dear. Love, how I missed you. Was very happy that Lewis & Weitzman & Ida came up in the evening & you know how Lewis carries on. Were it not for him, I don't know how man would have carried on. Thank God it is over, sweet! So-night I am going to my mother's house.

You sure are a wonder! Think of what you accomplished Sat.! Honey, dear, I am so happy; & do hope the cases continue to come in. They simply must! Do you got another divorce case? Didn't I tell you they are your specialty? That little $ bill you made today am informing everyone here, that I am leaving soon, to join my darling Hubby dear. It is amusing to hear to regrets they express. One would ~~think~~ think they really cared for me. You should hear Mrs. Swallow Honey, you can continue to send your letters to the dispensary marking your letter of Sunday April 7th the last one here. I will get that Tuesday. (Just got your letter of Sunday April 13th). After that look, send them to 70 Somers St. You won't have to write many more, eh, love? You will not stop writing after Sunday May 3rd. + I shall write to you until the day I leave. Alright? See how much more I love you? I will write to you 3 days more, after you quit writing to me. Will write you the big letter Sunday thereafter as I shall be on duty that day. Will try to get away in the afternoon, however,

Millions of kisses + kisses and everlasting love.

Everlasting

Frances.
